Malta Tourism Authority hosts two successful familiarisation trips from Germany

The Malta Tourism Authority has recently hosted two successful familiarisation trips from Germany, one hosting seven renowned journalists while the other hosting ten highly rated tour operators.

The tour operator famtrip accompanied by employees from MTA's Germany office, were taken to Valletta where they could appreciate the mild Maltese autumn climate and Valletta's stunning sights and Christmas street decorations. The group also explored Mdina, Marsaxlokk and Gozo.

The famtrip which brought over the journalists was part of the deal through which Malta became the official partner of the 2018 "f.re.e" consumer travel show, which takes place in Munich. Each partner country carries out a press trip to portray the respective destination, giving exclusive exposure to create increased awareness in leading media in Munich and the whole of Bavaria.

"f.re.e" is one of the most popular consumer exhibitions in southern Germany and showcases everything related to travel and recreation. This year's exhibition saw some 1,300 exhibitors from 70 countries attracting more than 135,000 visitors.

The journalists explored Valletta, The Three Cities, Mdina, the Dingli Cliffs and Marsaxlokk and spent a whole day discovering the beauty of Gozo. The group also had the opportunity to sample some typical island specialties and wines.

During a meeting, MTA's CEO, Mr. Paul Bugeja, MTA Chief Marketing Officer, Mr. Carlo Micallef, and Ms. Catherine Tabone, Executive Director Valletta 2018 Foundation, provided the journalists with interesting in-depth information about tourism developments and strategies as well as the mission, plans and events of the 2018 European Capital of Culture project. Mr. Bugeja and Mr. Micallef were also supported by Mr. Martin Frendo (Manager MTA Germany), as well as Ms. Nicole Staaf (Senior Marketing Executive Leisure & Tour Operating MTA Germany).

The journalists on the familiarisation trips provided some very positive feedback, particularly with the program that was prepared, which many said was very creative. The journalists were also stunned by all the variety that the Maltese Islands have to offer and the rich heritage of the islands. They were also excited and enthusiastic for Valletta being the next European Capital of Culture and what it will bring with it.

Commenting on the importance of such familiarisation visits, MTA CEO, Mr. Paul Bugeja said that “this is a vital way of providing the islands with more exposure, as journalists and tour operators can provide first hand information to potential visitors who are still deciding about their holiday destination.” Mr. Bugeja continued by saying that in the first ten months of 2017, the Maltese Islands have experienced a substantial increase from the German market, with an increase of almost 22% (over 29,000 more visitors) when compared to the same period in 2016.

Mr. Bugeja concluded by thanking all stakeholders involved, both locally and in Germany, for making these trips possible.

Note to the Editor: As the 2018 official partner country of f.re.e travel show, the Malta Tourism Authority will seize the opportunity to furthermore target the Bavarian and Southern German market. From February 22nd-25th 2018, MTA Germany will prominently showcase Valletta as the European Capital of Culture and the Maltese Islands’ diversity as an attractive European holiday destination to the f.re.e audience.

Bavaria and Southern Germany are among Germany’s federal states with the highest income and purchase power. Moreover, the Munich region benefits from excellent air connectivity to Malta via Munich (Air Malta, Lufthansa) and Nürnberg (Ryanair).
